Aleph announces the new opening of the headquarters in Istanbul and its participation to FESPA Eurasia 2016

Thanks to the increasing interest of Aleph customers in the Eurasia region, the Company is opening the new headquarters in Istanbul, starting from September 2016.

The great results generated by the presentation of the new range of large format digital printers at the last edition of ITMA Milano 2015 and particularly thanks to the commitment of its official distributor in Turkey, Aleph is ready to widen its market and give local and direct support to its customers.

"Italian manufacture is always having a great appeal abroad. The competence we achieved in digital printing for textile is continuously requested and it is perceived as a plus in the product quality" said Alessandro Manes, AD of Aleph srl. "We are proud to announce a new beginning and to extend our business in Turkey through our proper commercial office, completed by a new demo center to assist our clients and start several training sessions". The Director of the new headquarter will be Mr Yigit Emon who is dealing with Aleph products and printers since long time.

The new opening announcement comes at the same time of the FESPA Eurasia participation announcement. Aleph is preparing to exhibit at the new edition of FESPA Eurasia in December in Istanbul and it will be the occasion to present the new range of large format printers LaForte® designed specifically for the Turkish market and Asian markets.

Aleph is continuing to invest in Europe and in Asia, expanding its technology know how and by serving its customers with high quality products such as inks and consumables and state of the art printers.

Created in 1999 in the heart of the Italian textile manufacturing excellence, Aleph is now a company with a solid know-how in the construction of printing machine and in the development of supporting software.
