Lurate Caccivio, November 2016

Aleph: a new range to be launched within the end of the year

Aleph announces a new step forward in its commitment to digital printing technology: in order to give proper response to its clients abroad, especially Indian customers, the Italian Company is ready to launch a new range of LaForte wide format inkjet printers, in both versions, Fabric for direct printing on textile and Paper for sublimation.

The LaForte STUDIO range is designed for textile manufacturers with medium production but it achieves a 1200 dpi resolution for a perfect printing quality. The printers reach a top speed of 360 sqm/h and are equipped with an innovative control software for variable drop management to accentuate the crisp, authentic effect, totally avoiding the dithering effect. The new software matrix designed for the arrangement of the points are the elements that guarantee an exceptional performance compared to competitors. The innovative PATENTED transport system through vacuum belt filter guarantees an exceptional performance compared to competitors printers.

The new LaForte STUDIO range will be presented this year at Fespa Eurasia 2016 in Istanbul as a completion of the LaForte project which consists in an integrated solution including a wide range of outstanding large format inkjet digital printers, software and accessories Aleph is working very hard to spread its products in Europe and outside European borders, by learning each market specifics and delivering high performing solutions and technology.

The full range of printers, accessories and software is available at the website www.alephteam.com
